

"The president of the University of Antioquia, Alberto Uribe Correa, welcomes members of the team ALFA Project(2011) -10, funded by the European Union," Development of professional competences through participative assessment and simulation using web-tools" (DevalSimWeb).

In his speech the Principal highlighted the University investigative and academic achievements, to indicate the value of this transnational project in the training process with students and teachers, giving us the opportunity to confront our practices with the two continents concerning. Thanking the presence of all researchers the Principal stressed out the importance of collaborative work, the elaboration of a network focused on competences and assessment for learning, as a source to improve students' permanence in universities and job placement".